SMITH & WESSON

♦ INTRODUCTION

When Horace Smith and Daniel Baird Wesson first began their partnership in 1852, they shared a dream—to develop a repeating firearm. Pursuing their dream in a day and age when ideas were often an entrepreneur's only sustenance, Horace Smith and D.B. Wesson revolutionized the arms industry in 1854 when they developed the first practical self-contained metallic cartridge in America.

Today, nearly 1,500 employees carry on the tradition of providing high-quality, high-value revolvers and pistols for discriminating shooters. Smith & Wesson is recognized throughout the firearms industry as an innovator—introducing the .357 Magnum® in 1935, developing the .44 Magnum® in 1955, unveiling the Third Generation Pistol in 1988 and co-developing the .40 S&W in 1989.

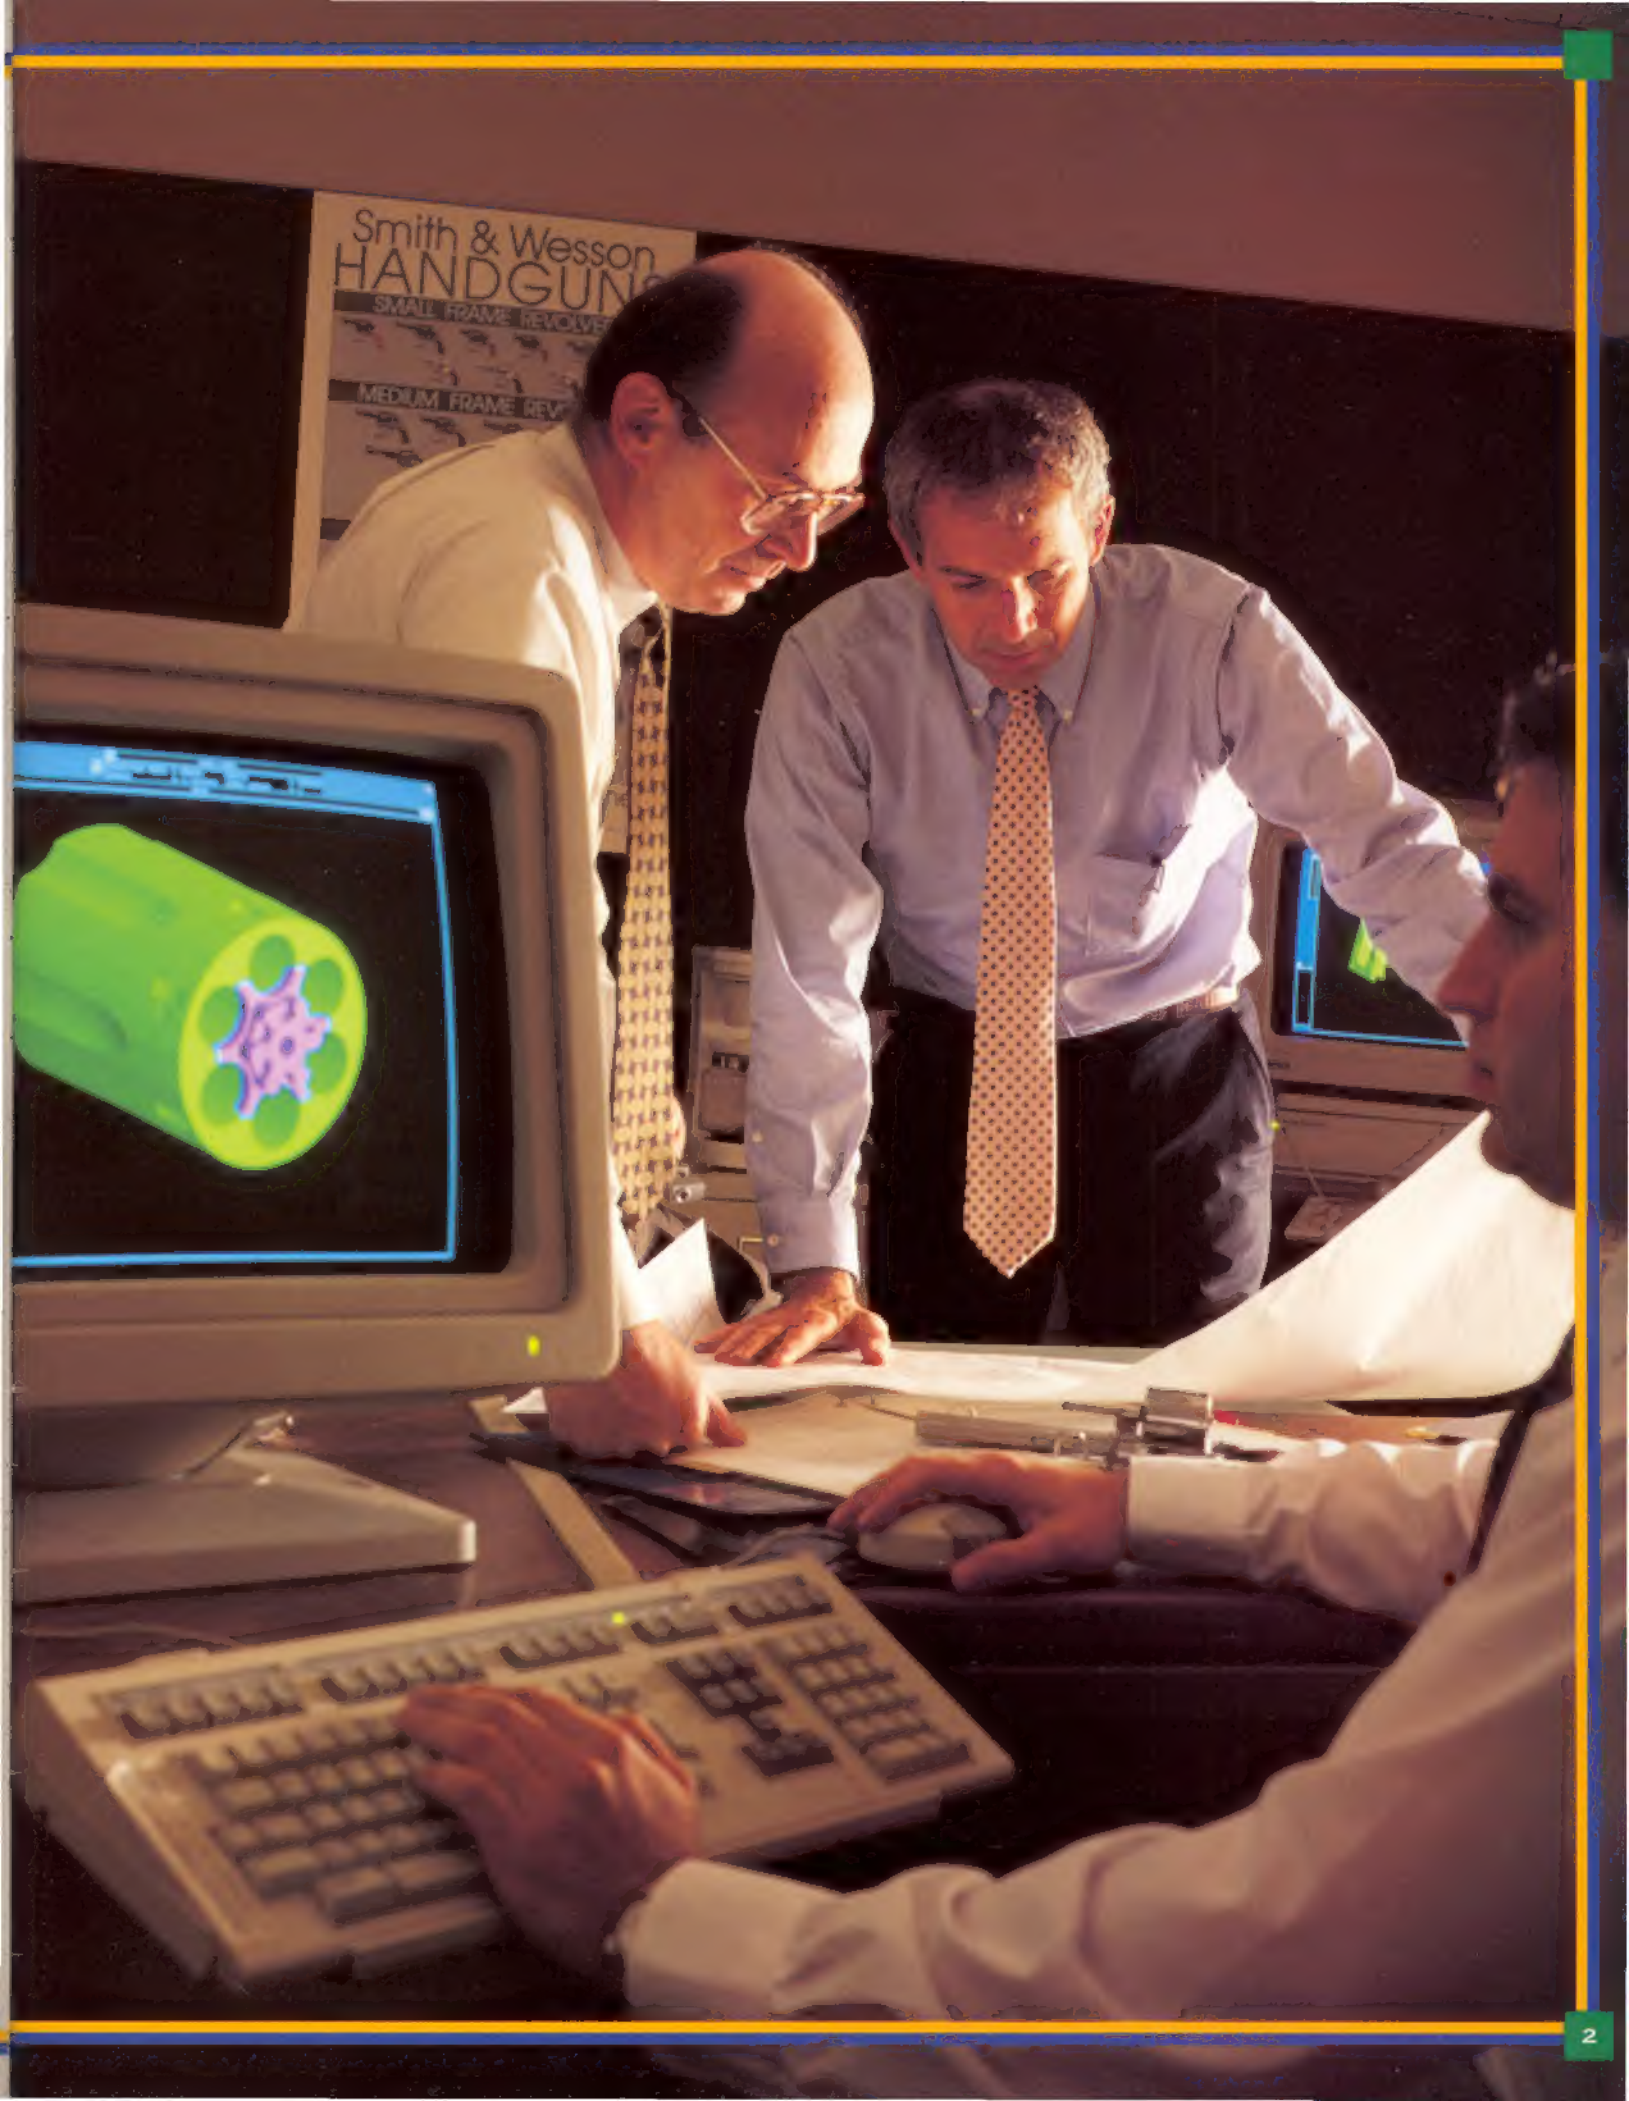

While Smith & Wesson is proud to be at the forefront of firearms design and manufacturing technology, it is our tradition of craftsmanship that makes Smith & Wesson the most sought after name in handguns. Throughout the assembly process, each individual part is inspected for fit and finish. At the final assembly station, our craftsmen hand-fit each gun before sending it to the test range.

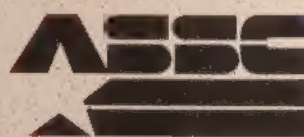

Our goal is the same today as it was in 1852—to provide you with the finest, most reliable handguns in the world.

THE MASTERS

Recognizing that the shooting sports needed an event to showcase the top shooters and demonstrate that firearms, when used properly, provide wholesome recreation for people of all ages, Smith & Wesson founded The Masters International Shooting Championship. In just six years, The Masters has become the richest shooting event in the country, with a $250,000 purse. In 1991, a national television audience watched the drama of The Sixth Annual Masters International Shooting Championship unfold on the ESPN cable television network.

TEAM SMITH & WESSON

To further promote competitive shooting, we formed Team Smith & Wesson, featuring three of the brightest stars in the competitive handgun arena—J. Michael Plaxco, Jerry Miculek and Judy Woolley. Team Smith & Wesson's public appearances and demonstrations at shooting tournaments and in-store dealer promotions provide the public with a fresh perspective on shooting and firearms ownership.

REVOLVER ♦ INTRODUCTION

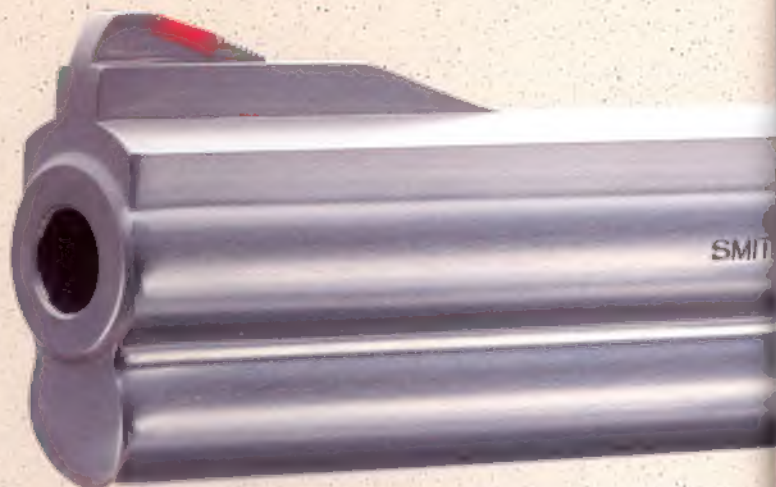

For six generations, Smith & Wesson artisans have melded tradition and technology, transforming firearms manufacturing from a science into an art form.

Traditional drop-forged construction yields a sleek, super-strong frame, while special technologically advanced heat-treat process provides additional strength and durability. Granted, there are less expensive ways to produce a revolver, but there's none better.

Our attention to detail ensures that the trigger pull of each Smith & Wesson revolver is consistently smooth. And our craftsmen hand-tune every revolver to yield Smith & Wesson's legendary out-of-the-box accuracy.

Smith & Wesson offers a wide variety of revolvers to meet every need, from concealed carry to big game hunting. Choose from three frame sizes and nine barrel lengths, in calibers ranging from .22 to .44 Magnum.® You also have a choice of blue or stainless finish, front and rear sights, round or square butt stocks, target or combat trigger, and concealed, shrouded, service, semi-target or target hammers.

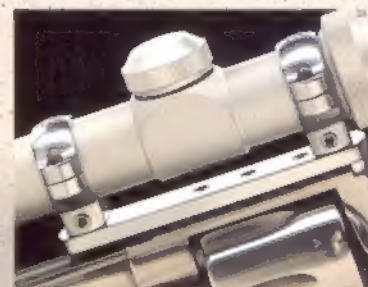

Smith & Wesson's reputation for quality, durability, selection and performance has earned the trust and confidence of the world's most discriminating shooters.

◆ ENGRAVING

CUSTOM ENGRAVING

The Smith & Wesson Custom Engraving Shop has always produced handguns of a certain elegance—guns which they continue to take justifiable pride in presenting to the public. Since 1852 it has been customary for Smith & Wesson to offer handsomely engraved revolvers and pistols for gun fanciers, collectors, and for use of presentation pieces and display. That's as important today as ever Custom Engraving adds that distinctive look to your Smith & Wesson, making it a highly personal work of art.

Engraving is available on most Smith & Wesson handguns, revolvers or pistols, blue or stainless steel finishes.

PERSONALIZED CUSTOM ENGRAVING

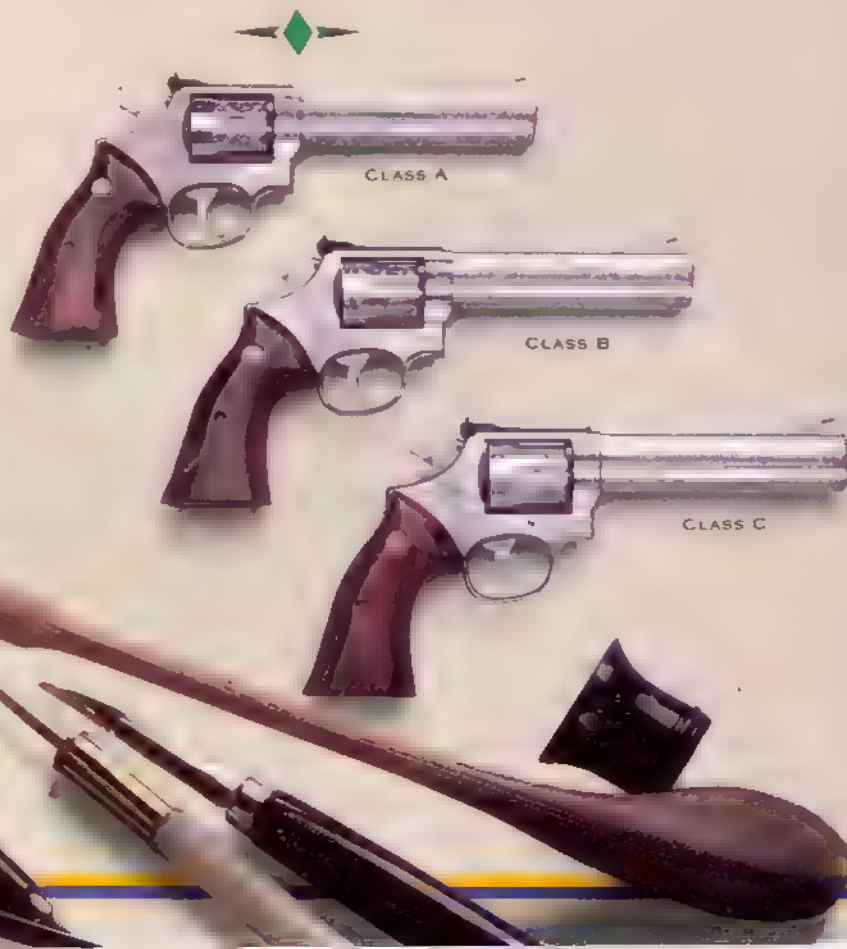

Exciting game scenes, replicas of agency seals or badges, emblems and inscriptions, names or initials, even personal motifs the Custom Engraving Shop can provide virtually any type of custom design. Shown, this Ladysmith Model 60, with a finely hand engraved rose, exhibits one of the countless possibilities in engraving.

SCROLLWORK COVERAGE

Smith & Wesson has held a tradition of furnishing three classes of scroll engraving—A, B, and C—to demanding customers.

Class A is profuse in ornamentation, but within the limits of good taste. Class B represents an intermediate style to please the most discerning buyer.

Class C provides ornamentation for all major parts of the gun.
